PLANT IT RIGHT

- Shrubs do not require support, but all trees should be staked at the time of planting.
1. If possible, immerse pot in a pail of water for 20 to 30 minutes prior to planting. (Applies to perennials, trees, and shrubs)
 2. Dig a saucer shaped hole that is at least twice the diameter of the pot and slightly deeper.
 3. Carefully tip or pull the plant out of the pot, and gently loosen the roots.
 4. Combine bone meal, compost, or decayed sawdust to improve the quality of your topsoil.
 5. Position the root of the plant to the centre of the hole, then tamp down the earth around the plant firmly - leaving a slight depression, and water thoroughly. Continue to water throughout the first season - this is crucial for survival.
 6. Add a high grade weed barrier and 3" of mulch around transplanted trees and shrubs, resulting in retained moisture and prevention of weed growth.
